

Thank you for the submission of your research proposal.

The assignment required a PPT presentation in a video format of your choice, covering the main points of a proposal, and namely, RQs, methodology, and some pointers to the theoretical framework underpinning your research. You had the opportunity to submit a draft for formative feedback, and I do hope you made good use of the possibility.

This was a very good presentation. Below you will find a breakdown of the grade:

Knowledge and Understanding

You demonstrated a quite good understanding of the chosen topic. All the key sections of the presentation are present but not all are equally developed. There was evidence of critical analysis in all the key sections of the presentation.

Presentation and Communication Skills

The research questions were set clearly and along with the aims and objectives.

Criticality

The methodology is well designed and promising.

To engage the audience, the presentation needs some improvement (pace and narrative, mainly -- some sections are less clear than others). The references are fine.

Good job. You're now ready for your actual project and could use this as a starting point.
